We understand the reasons for the accelerating, seemingly unstoppable alterations to our traditional society that once placed elders firmly in the center of our world. The pre-electrified world was a time when children gathered expectantly around elders on a warm sleeping platform in the evening to listen to tales. and a time when villagers felt very close to each other. freely visiting each other's homes to exchange the latest news. tell. and listen to folklore. This has all changed as it has in much of the world as modernity in the form of electricity. radios. television. DVD VCD players. mobile phones. and so on arrive in once remote areas. This has now deprived our elders of an audience for their folklore and memories of monsters. witches. demons. demonesses. and amazing worlds colored by imaginative genius. When elders are not asked to tell folklore. they do not tell it. and when they do not tell. they tend to forget. and the next generation loses access to knowledge that was once central to life. Furthermore. the poetics of Tibetan oral literature...
